EVERYTHING POINTS TO A BOUNTIFUL HARVEST

The Largest Crop in History Predicted for the Lacombe District.

A trip through the district at the present time will convince the most pessimistic citizen of Alberta that the Lacombe district is the most favored section of the Province.

While the southern part of the province is badly in need of moisture, and the residents are fearful of a crop failure, up here in Central Alberta there is plenty of moisture and you can almost hear the grain growing. Fall wheat is going to be a splendid crop, the stand in almost every case being heavy, and practically none of the area under wheat suffered from winter killing. Oats, of which there is a very large acreage in this year, are looking their best, in fact never before have prospects been so bright for a record crop. The pastures are also in good condition, and stockmen have abundance of feed for their cattle.

One result of the good prospects in Central Alberta, is the steady flow of new homeseekers to the Lacombe district. Many farmers who have prospected all other parts of the Province have decided that the very best land in Alberta is to be found tributary to Lacombe, and land is moving more rapidly this summer than ever before. And one thing is notable—the settlers who are coming into this district are men of means, and are willing to pay good prices for what they consider the choicest land in the whole Canadian West.

The Lacombe district has never had a boom—no manure growth here. We have had no railways to boost for us and have very slight hopes of being a great railway divisional point or mammoth manufacturing centre—but we have the soil. And we have the most progressive farmers to be found on the continent and therein lies the secret of our success, and accounts for the fact that more settlers are coming into the Lacombe district this year than are going into any other district in the Province.

The tennis court on the old school grounds is now in excellent condition for the game, and is becoming popular among the young people. A number of players are there every evening taking advantage of the fine double court which the management was very judicious in constructing. All are eligible to become members, and those wishing to do so may pay the membership fee to any member of the Merchants Bank staff. There are no hard and set rules and the aim of the management is to make it pleasant and agreeable for everybody. Membership fee for ladies $1.00, gent's $3.00.

Earl Grey arrived at Bristol last Thursday. National mourning prevented the intended banquet to him. Earl Grey wired the Lord Mayor at Bristol: "Am much gratified by your kind desire to do me honor, but am unable, as the representative of the Crown in Canada, to take part in any public function until after the end of June." The civic reception was therefore an informal affair.

Collingwood Schrieber, chief consulting engineer of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway, says he does not look for the final completion of the transcontinental road before the end of 1913. The great difficulty has been the mountain section and the scarcity of labor. A total of 915 miles has been laid with steel west of Winnipeg, and of this 890 miles is stated by Mr. Schrieber to be in regular operation. From Prince Rupert east 249 miles is nearing completion, and from Moose Creek west 180 miles. On the mountain section tracks are being laid over a division of 100 miles.

The steamers, Yews and La Rochelle, collided in the English Channel on Monday, cutting the Yews almost in two. The steamer La Rochelle sank within five minutes of the collision carrying the captain and eight men to death. The survivors were picked up by the boat of the Yews. The collision came in a dense fog and neither had warning. The Yews, steaming at half speed through an almost impenetrable fog, struck the La Rochelle squarely amidships her steel bow shearing almost entirely through the other craft.

Nearly a thousand deaths are reported to have been caused by the floods in Hungary, which exceeded all records. It is probable that the worst is not yet known. The roads, railways, and telegraphs have been destroyed. Thousands of cattle, sheep and hogs have been drowned. The rivers are choked with carcasses, trees and the wreckage of houses. In some villages practically every building has been swept away. Thousands of acres of crops have been carried off with the soil in which they were growing. The people of the flooded districts are in despair.

It is quite evident that such following as Mr. Cushing and the gentlemen most prominently associated with him have had has been weakened to a very considerable extent by certain charges which have been made in the newspapers against the ex-minister and which he has gone off to Europe without attempting to answer. He was accused, in one instance, of receiving several thousand dollars from a firm which had large contracts with his department. The accusation was made in very specific terms. Yet when questioned, he declared that he intended to do nothing about it, that it was only a manufactured story. This, however, does not satisfy those who have put their faith in him in the past and who were disposed to listen to him when he charged others with corruption, which he absolutely failed to prove. In endeavoring to take away the good name of his former associates in the cabinet, he spoke it should be remembered, from beneath the protection afforded by his membership of the Legislature. Those who are now accusing him are not in such a favorable position. If they cannot substantiate what they have said about him, heavy penalties can be exacted from them. But Mr. Cushing makes no move against them and starts off on a holiday to Europe. Need he be surprised if, on his return, he finds his following reduced to the vanishing point?—News.

Removing Trade Barriers.

The Irish Homestead is a recent issue contained a review of conditions throughout the world which leads it to the conclusion that the next few years will see great changes in the way of the removal of trade barriers. Germany, it holds, is in the position now that Great Britain was in before free trade was adopted in the latter country. The German land owning element demands a continuation of protection as a means of enabling these owners to compete with the pay, and high prices for food, while artisans, on the other hand, are clamoring for free food imports in order to reduce the cost of living. Just as soon as German artisans and laborers obtain the means of giving expression to their views through the ballot, Germany will follow the example set by England half a century ago and declare for trade freedom.

There are evidences of a similar movement on the part of people in cities and towns in the United States. The high cost of living in that country has given marked strength to the demand of tariff reduction. Happily, too, the movement is not confined to wage earners in cities. American farmers, as shown by discussions in United States agricultural papers, have come to see that the tariff contains more of disadvantage than advantage for them. This from the Rural New Yorker is one of the latest expressions of opinion on this subject: "We are sure that a great majority of Americans believe that it would be a far better financial policy for this country to develop away from the tariff, to more direct forms of taxation. It ought to be clear by this time that there is no such thing left in this country as a natural law of supply and demand. With purchasing, transportation and cold storage all in the hands of a few monopolistic corporations, both producer and consumer will be held up just as long as they believe in the fairy tale of a natural demand and supply. We cannot see that the tariff on most and five stock benefits anyone in particular except the large buyers and handlers. The worst feature of it all is that farmers are led to believe that these tariffs on food are of great benefit to them; so that, in exchange for this supposed benefit, they consent to tariffs on necessities which rob them and enrich the few."

How intelligent American manufacturers feel in regard to the matter was indicated by a recent speech in Congress by Eugene N. Fox, a former Republican and a manufacturer, recently elected as a Democrat in what had been a rock-ribbed Republican constituency. "As a representative manufacturer in the iron and steel industry in New England," said Mr. Fox, "employing large numbers of skilled workmen, and using large quantities of the finished produce of the steel trust, I say that in my judgment my industry and the people employed in it would not suffer under free trade conditions; that, if the 45 per cent duty was entirely removed, and provided these conditions applied to the whole iron and steel industry from the coal and iron ore up. This statement is equally true of other staple industries. In fact, I believe that under free trade conditions we can compete in the markets of the world in most, if not all, of these industries, and compete to better advantage than we now do."

Hon. Chas. S. Hamlin, Ex-Assistant of the United States Treasury, in a recent speech in New York, outlined what he considered a reasonable proposal for reciprocity in trade between Canada and the United States. He suggested that the United States offer free entry for Canadian coal, lumber, pulp, printing paper, grain, hay, meat and food products, horses, cattle and iron ore. In return for this, he thought, Canada might give more favorable terms on United States agricultural implements, machinery, certain textiles, steel and iron products, wheat, citrus fruits, coal, lumber and agricultural products.

The formation of a free trade league in Winnipeg a week or so ago may mean much towards the realization of a general western movement.

Continued Success.

Creamery reports this week are as usual favorable. Patrons are becoming more numerous and the increase in the supply of cream continues. Mr. Anderson's superiority as a butter maker gives him the acquaintance of the wholesale dealers of produce in the province and affords him the opportunity of procuring the best market in the province for the product of our creamery. The plant is running exceptionally well and Mr. Anderson expresses himself as being greatly pleased with the business he has so far conducted and is looking forward to a great dairying future for the Lacombe district.

Lacombe Looks Good to Him.

"You have the best town on the line between Calgary and Edmonton," remarked Mr. M. C. Bernard, a Calgary capitalist, to a Globe reporter yesterday. "Your district cannot be compared to any other part of the Province. I have seen since coming to Lacombe a few hours ago, more real evidences of progress than can be found in any of the other towns. Your town has an up-to-date appearance and well-stocked companies favorably with the best in Calgary. I will be surprised if Lacombe is not the largest town on the C. & E. in a very short time." Mr. Bernard was here looking up conditions with a view to investment.

To Combat Socialism.

New York, June 20.—Clergymen of many denominations, publicists and labor leaders united here yesterday to organize the International and Social Justice League of America. The purpose of the league is defined in its prospectus in part as follows:

"To clearly before the American people the principles at issue between American thought and life as compared with the economic and political revolutions proposed by socialism, to promote and perpetuate the institutions by which America has become a land of freedom, progress and reverence for law, to simplify and reinforce the faith of the people in personal initiative, to formulate just conditions of competition while resisting the aggression of private privilege at the expense of public welfare, to defend the workman in his demand for an equitable return for his labor, to uphold 'the everlasting reality of religion as the foundation of our civilization.'"

The Laurier Meeting.

A meeting of the Lacombe Liberal Executive was held this week and it was decided to make strenuous efforts to have Sir Wilfrid Laurier stop here and address a meeting on August 10th, in the afternoon. It is the intention of the premier to address an evening meeting in Red Deer on that date, but it would be very difficult for the majority of the residents of this district to be in attendance. Dr. Clark, M. P., Senator Talbot, and W. F. Puffer, M. P. E., have been memorialized to see if arrangements cannot be made in accordance with the wishes of the Lacombe Liberal Association, and the prospect is good that they will meet with success. Watch for definite announcement in a few days.

Roosevelt Arrives Home.

Ex-President Roosevelt arrived in New York early Saturday morning after being absent for one year and a few months. It was a glorious and enthusiastic welcome which New York extended to him. Those citizens took no pains to disguise the fact that they were proud of their nation's foremost private citizen. With the guns from two forts and from battle-ships booming the presidential salute and amid the cheers of hundreds of thousands, and the tolling of every kind of whistle and the ringing of bells, Theodore Roosevelt was welcomed as he arrived in New York harbor.

The greeting by Mayor Gaynor was cordial and brief and while the enormous crowd was still cheering, Mr. Roosevelt and the members of the reception committee took their places in the carriages lined up near the platform.

The expulsion of Jews from Kiev, Moscow and other Russian cities is occasioning great hardship among the proscribed class. Under the Russian segregation law, the territory habitable by Jews is restricted to the Polish provinces and the Ukraine, or Little Russia. But gradually, through a lax enforcement of this law, Jews to the number, it is estimated, of 100,000 or more have established themselves outside this pale. The growing commercial and political influence of these Jews has led the Russian government to a more rigorous application of the exclusion provisions.

A five-year old boy who arrived at Sarnathos on the C. P. R. train from Calgary Thursday afternoon can always boast of having done a "stunt" which probably no one else of his age has ever done and come out alive. It was nothing less than falling out of the window of a moving train. The little fellow was playing on the seat near the open window. His mother fell asleep and when she wakened up the child was missing. She gave an alarm and the train was stopped. It backed down the track for about half a mile and the boy was found lying at the side of the road bed. When picked up he had a bad cut on the forehead, but was not injured in any other way.

The accident happened a few miles north of Calgary when the train was going at a speed of about twenty miles an hour.

Minneapolis Journal.—The severity of the New York courts is terrible. Senator Guggenheim's boy has "doped time" in the Tombs for automobile racing in the streets. Three times was Guggenheim in the toils. The first two offences did not bring him behind prison bars. But the third time landed the young man in the Tombs to serve a sentence of 35 minutes imposed by a severe and cruel New York judge. A kind-hearted warden, evidently disapproving of the harshness of the judge, allowed the young offender to spend his incarceration in the lawyer's room at the Tombs. For thirty-five long and dread minutes the unfortunate youth pined for freedom. Is this Russia?

"It cured me" or "It saved the life of my child," are the expressions you hear every day about Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. This is true the world over where this valuable remedy has been introduced. No other medicine in use for diarrhoea or bowel complaints has received such general approval. The secret of the success of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is that it cures. Sold by all Dealers.

The price of beef has reached an unheard-of height in London, due, it is said, to the falling off in shipments from the United States. This falling off is due to the shortage in the supply at home, a shortage which may be only temporary but which may be more or less permanent. Pressure of population is narrowing the circle of the range country in the United States, and land which has hitherto been used for pasture is being made to grow grain. If the demand keeps up of course this land under cultivation will come in time to produce far more beef than it did in the wild state. But it will take some time to readjust matters. Meantime the shortage across the water leaves an excellent chance for the Canadian beef grower to get into a market worth having and one which if secured he could hold. This he is not at present very well able to do because the home demand is using up the available supply and clamoring for more. There should be big money in beef production in Canada in the next few years, both for home consumption and for export. There would be bigger money in it or a better assurance of getting what there should be in it for the producer if the chilled meat trade were started from this country to the Old Land.

The inland revenue department has issued an interesting bulletin on bleached flour. Judging from the samples taken up by the inspectors in all parts of Canada, it would appear that about 20 per cent of Canadian flour now on the market is whitened by the addition of oxides of nitrogen. A small quantity of the oxides may be absorbed from the atmosphere, but there is no doubt that in some cases the flour has been exposed to nitrogenous oxides for the purpose of bleaching it. There is no statute specifically forbidding this, but an order-in-council may be passed standardizing flour, which will declare impure any flour containing an appreciable quantity of these oxides of nitrogen. It is an open question as to whether this method of bleaching is deleterious.

Two ponderous animals, the largest steers ever grown in the premier province of Alberta, are roaming around the stock yards of P. Burns & Co., Calgary, at present, but will be taken to the exhibition grounds, where they will be exhibited to the gaze of wondrous sightseers during the exhibition. The proportions of these huge specimens of the beef tribe are truly monstrous. An idea of their size can be obtained when it is stated that they tip the scales at over 3000 each, that is two of them will weigh three tons, or a ton and a half each. The animals grew up on an Alberta ranch and are truly a credit to the province. Many visitors have expressed surprise at their immense proportions to Mr. Burns. The steers are well proportioned and very gentle in spirit.

Nine monarchs followed in the gloom when Edward journeyed to the tomb; nine monarchs walked, as in a dream—enough to make a baseball team and cast upon King Edward's bier the futile tribute of a tear. And at his task the section sings (the man who digs the graves for kings). "Nine monarchs, in their brave array, are bending over Edward's clay, and does the silent sovereign care, or does he know that they are there? And can the tears of monarchs nine make those dim eyes of Edward's shine? And if they give their nine commands can they bring life to those cold hands? Can all their armies and their ships bring laughter to those dead white lips? Can their nine crowns and sceptres nine bring to the dead the life divine? Nine paupers at a pauper's grave, who claw their rage and weep and rave, can do so much to help the dead, as those nine kings at Edward's bed."

It is rather interesting to contemplate the successive events on the earth if the atmosphere should be quickly removed. The first thing that would probably happen is that every animal, insect, fish, bird and plant would explode, for each contains air at a pressure of fifteen pounds to the square inch on the outside, which is balanced by an equal pressure on the inside, and would rush outward on the first pressure being removed.

GYROSCOPE CAR PROBLEMS

LUBRICATION is a vital part of Brennan's gyroscope car, writes Percival Gibben in McTure's Let's. That fail and the axle grinding and red-hot wheel eat through the white metal of the bearings as a knife goes through butter. It is a thing that has been foreseen by the inventor; to the lubricating oil, 100 parts of grease, a green signal that would instantly warn the engineer.

with the momentum they've got," an swers the inventor. "And for two or three hours that 'ad keep it upright by itself."

"On the short track at Gillingham there are no gradients to show what the car is doing," says the inventor, "but "There is no reason to doubt his

It would do all these things while carrying a man; and for my part I am willing to take Brennan's word."

There are no gradients to show what the right direction is, but here again the inventor is positive. She will run up a slope as steep as one.

"There is no reason to doubt his five-foot model that he used to exhibit could climb much steeper inclines than the right-angle slope of the ramp above the ground or remain at rest upon it while the rope was swung to and fro. It would be a simple matter while carrying a man; and for my part I am willing to take Brennan's word."

When Brennan made his little model climb the inclined plane, the car would remain upright and the little car straight rail they left the track at the end of their direction. The gyroscope governed the direction of the car.

It was the first check in the evolution of the perfect machine.

It was the first check, also, before he gave the answer to the question years of making experimental machines

"A spinning top set down so that it stands at an angle to the floor will right itself; it will rise till it stands upright on the point of equal friction. Brennan's recompose therefore will be like

"A spinning top set down so that it stands at an angle to the floor will right itself; it will rise till it stands upright on its point of equal friction. Brennan's gyroscopic, therefore, was to turn his gyroscopic as a top. He enclosed it in a cage through which its axle projected, and at each side of the cage he built stout brackets reaching forth a few inches below each end of the axle.

"The result is not difficult to deduce. When the car came to a curve the centrifugal force would pull the car outward; the side of the car that was on the inside of the curve swung up and the gyroscope as a top. He enclosed it in a case through which its axle was visible. The case was made of brass, he built stout brackets reaching forth a few inches below each end of the axle.

The result is not difficult to deduce. When the car came to a curve the centrifugal action tended to throw it out of the track; the side of the car that was outside the curve was thrown outward. The bracket touched the axle of the gyroscope.

For, with it in the manner its father the top, the gyroscope tries to stand upright on the bracket; all the weight of it and all its wonderful force were concentrated on the axle, thus holding it down against the tendency to rise and capsize. The thing was done; the car was held steady in the curve by its posterity. It only remained to fit a double gyroscope with the wheels re-versed, and the car was ready, save for engineering details, the monomaniac.

"Fourthly in the manner of its stand upright on the bracket; all the weight of it and all its wonderful force were pressed on that side of the car, holding it down against the tendency to rise and capsize. The thing was done; the spinning top had come to the rescue of its posterity. It only remained to fit a double gyroscope with the wheels revolving in opposite directions, and, save for a few details, the monomotor car was evolved."

To test the safety of the church steeple a country vicar climbed it with a scaling ladder a feat requiring no small amount of nerve. He was proud of his achievement, and talked rather more about it than was, perhaps, consistent with modesty. He even at a meeting of his parishioners described, with a wealth of detail, his

"When I reached the top and saw the huge golden weathercock gleaming in the sunlight, what do you think I did?" he asked.

An old farmer, who looked the picture of boredom, hazarded a guess.

"You cheated the weathercock," he said.

The King's Powers

and Limitations.

Some old prerogatives as well as a great responsibility have descended upon King George, and will, in turn, be passed down to his successor in that, we hope, far distant day when his course as king is run, says the Mail and Empire. For instance, the king has the sole right to grant the Bible, the Book of Common Prayer and all acts of parliament in the United Kingdom. If he so desired he could forbid the printing of any or all of them throughout the empire. More curious still is the custom which acknowledges that all whales and sturgeon caught upon the coast of England are property of the king. The queen is supposed to have an equity in the whale, the tail going to her, perhaps in deference to her supposed need of whalebone. As it happens, though, the whalebone is not obtained from the whale's tail.

Owns a Whole Lot.

The king is sole owner of the beds of all tidal rivers in Great Britain. He is also proprietor of all that part of the shore surrounding the British coast which lies between low and high water mark. Any newly discovered land by a British subject belongs to the king, and should an island arise suddenly in the sea within the three-mile radius of the coasts of Britain its owner would be the king. Theoretically, of course, the king is the real owner of every square inch of British soil, and the taxes the other owners pay are merely rent. Thus the king is exempt from taxation, because since the taxes are his, it would be absurd for him to tax himself. So, too, he is exempt from all tolls, and this prerogative gave rise to an amusing incident in the reign of George III. His majesty was hunting one day on Hounslow Heath, and was in hot pursuit of a stag. It swam across the river, and the hunters made for the bridge. Unaware that the king was with them, the toll-keeper let down the gates, but raised them immediately on the cry "The King, the King!" being raised by the courtiers.

When the vanguard had passed through, the keeper lowered the gates again, supposing the king to have gone on. It happened, however, that King George was in the second party. In vain his courtiers shouted at the gate-keeper. "I've let King George through, God bless him," he stoutly declared, "and I know no other king in England. If you have brought out the King of France, hang me if I let him through without the blunt." In great wrath the royal party had to wait until the toll fees were paid, the stag in the meantime escaping. A somewhat similar story is told of King Edward, who, as Prince of Wales, while fox hunting, was once halted by an indignant farmer with a pitchfork. The horror of the farmer when he learned the identity of his victim was only equalled by the amusement of Edward.

Another royal prerogative is that of pardoning criminals. King George could tomorrow order all the prisoners of the empire to open, for the theory is that every crime is committed against the king's peace. He could not, however, interfere in a civil case where the issue is between private parties. In some other respects the king's power is, by ancient custom, strictly limited. For example, he cannot appear in parliament save when he goes in state to the house of lords to exercise his prerogative of opening or proroguing parliament, and giving his assent to bills. When Prince of Wales, King Edward was frequently present, listening to debates, but once he ascended the throne this privilege passed from him. King George, too, has attended many debates in parliament, but will enter the house no more save on formal occasions.

Similarly, the king may not enter a court of law as plaintiff or defendant, nor may he administer justice. To offset this disability is the legal theory that the king can do no wrong, and the legal responsibility for any crime which an English king might choose to commit would rest upon his ministers not on him. On no pretence may the king be arrested, and his goods distrained or taken into execution. This exemption extends partly to his household, and no man in it may be arrested or taken in execution in criminal or civil action without permission from the board of green cloth, which regulates the duties and liabilities of the inmates of the royal establishment. Every royal residence is thus a sanctuary, and formerly the offence of striking anyone within these precincts was punishable by cutting off the offender's right hand, and by life imprisonment.

Mention must be made also of a royal prerogative—that of declaring war. It is doubtful if there is another European sovereign who could by his own act declare war with a foreign power. Not long ago some burrower into the constitution called attention to this right of the king of England and sounded an alarm. Whereat his readers smiled, better aware than their instructor, where, within the British dominions, lies real power on which is founded both kingship and the law—the will of the people themselves.

The New York post office department inspectors last Wednesday made a raid on the offices of United Wireless Telegraph Company there, resulting in the arrest of Christopher Wilson, the company's president, and Samuel G. Bogart, its vice-president. They are accused of having perpetrated a gigantic swindle by which thousands of individuals throughout the country were induced to buy worthless stock of the company, paying $20,000,000 for it. If the charges of the post office authorities against the company are true, many shareholders throughout Western Canada stand to lose a considerable sum of money, as the company has had active selling agents all over the West for many months. The United Wireless Telegraph Company has no connection with the North American Wireless Telephone corporation.

Five hundred thousand persons have perished in terrible famines and some of the most fertile valleys in Africa are being depopulated all because of the tsetse fly which produces the sleeping sickness, the victim rapidly passing into spasms, insanity and death. Cures its ravages are speedily curbed, this fly or rather the parasite it carries and transmits will devastate the rich valleys of the Limpopo river, and the Uganda district. Eventually it is said by scientists on the ground, the black race will disappear and the white man with his scientific and sanitary methods will come in, destroy the tsetse fly and inherit as fair a land as the sun shines upon.

Niagara Falls.—Oscar Houdin, who was advertised to slide across the river from the top of the American shore to the Canadian shore last Tuesday, suspended by his teeth, made the start successfully, but when 1,700 feet from the American shore, came to a stop. He was still 600 feet from the Niagara river were 250 feet below. Awe-stricken the crowds looked on while the man struggled to retain his hold on the small pulley, from which he was suspended. He grasped the cable with his hands, and then crossed his legs over the wire and hung that way for a time, while the wire swung to and fro in mid-air. When it was seen that he had grasped the rope a cheer went up from the crowd that could be heard above the roar of the cataract. In the meantime the Maid o' Mist had been brought into service, and hand over hand the man slid down the rope and boarded the steamer. Another cheer arose when he was hauled safely aboard the craft.

The circus train, composed of fifteen cars of the Frank A. Robbins' show, was wrecked one mile from Edensburg, Pa., on Friday. Two lions, an elephant, one leopard, one hyena, one jaguar, and an ibex are said to be at large as a result of the derailment. Six employees were injured. The most injured were removed to the hospital in Altoona. At the scene of the wreck a low bridge spans a deep gully. As the circus train passed over the bridge three of the wagons which contained the animals struck the low-hanging girders and were overturned. The cars carrying the wagon gears were derailed and thrown over the embankment leading to the bridge. In the darkness of the early morning the confusion following the derailment of the menagerie was terrifying. The howls of the wild animals which fled in every direction, mingled with the cries of the injured men, pinned under the wreckage. At the time of the accident the train was making better than twenty miles an hour on a down grade. The engineer stated that he threw on his emergency brakes when he felt the first shock of the cars against the bridge girders. His action probably saved many lives. The entire country for miles around is in a state of terror. Many of the farmers and their families refuse to leave their homes and take up the search for the liberated menagerie beasts. Circus employees are beating the woods, hauling temporary cages with them in an effort to corral the animals. A special train from Edensburg with physicians and nurses assisted in the care of the injured. Two of the circus employees may die.

After having eaten together for two months, sleeping handcuffed together every night for the same period, and in the daytime walking in Indian file along the narrow trails of the Northern British Columbia and Alberta Wilds, a British Columbian provincial constable and his prisoner reached this city Wednesday on their way to Kamloops. The prisoner is a man named Frank Bigelow, who was sentenced to twenty-three months in the Kamloops jail for fox stealing. The offence was committed at St. John, B. C., and for two months the officer and his prisoner have been tramping over the trails of Northern British Columbia on their way to civilization and jail. In the day time the constable kept his prisoner ahead of him, as Bigelow is an expert woodsman and trapper, and if he had once made his escape his recapture would have taken many months, with big chances of his never being caught by the authorities again.

Charles Lawson appeared at the Mounted Police Barracks at Edmonton last Friday, on a charge of stealing furs to the value of $2,000 from Hislop & Nagle, of Athabasca Landing. Sergeant Schwenker, R.N.W.M.P., of Athabasca Landing, stated on the 30th of August, 1909, 29 silver fox skins were stolen from Messrs. Hislop & Nagle. Eighteen were recovered within ten days of the theft. On June 3, 1910, Lawson is alleged to have arrived in Edmonton with the furs in his possession. A warrant has been issued for his arrest.

The senate, the highest court of appeals in Russia, has ordered that the expulsion of Jewish children at Moscow be suspended, until a decision has been handed down interpreting the law with reference to children. An official statement by Premier Stolypin made special reference to the expulsion of school children from Moscow explaining that professional women enjoying a right of residence outside the pale may not confer the same privilege upon their children. As a consequence many children have been separated from their parents.

C.N.R. WILL RUN THROUGH LACOMBE

President McKenzie States That Work on This Branch Will Be Started This Week.

Edmonton, June 20.—Wm. MacKenzie, president of the Canadian Northern Railway, arrived in the city from the south over the C. P. R. on Saturday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, and left for Winnipeg by special train over his own line 5:40. Mr. MacKenzie is returning to Toronto after a trip to the coast, where he made the financial arrangements in connection with the purchase by MacKenzie & Mann of the Dominion coal interest in B. C. for $10,000,000. During the short time he was in Edmonton he was in conference with Premier Sifton for an hour.

Interviewed by the Bulletin he confirmed the telegraphic announcement of the letting of the contract of the first section of the main line of the railway from Edmonton to the Pembina river, a distance of seventy miles. This contract was awarded to MacMillan Brothers. It calls for the completion of the work by fall, and it is expected that rails will be laid the entire distance to the Pembina before the snow flies next winter.

Mr. MacKenzie stated that the C. N. R. line from Stettler to the Brazeau coal fields where the company has 20,000 acres of coal land will be commenced today, from Stettler, the final survey being started and grading following immediately. The line is to run through Lacombe.

The C. N. R. president was not in the humor to discuss the action of the C. P. R. in taking injunction proceedings against his railway in connection with the line from Vegreville to Calgary, tying up the work south of Stettler.

Mr. MacKenzie would not state what work would be done on the line to the Peace River this year. He said that the inability of the company to secure the approval of their plans until last week had retarded the work very greatly.

The Misses Belcher, of Edmonton, spent Saturday in Lacombe, visiting their brother, Mr. A. Belcher, manager of the Merchants Bank.

Rev. Thos. Powell will deliver a lecture in the Methodist church at Castor, tomorrow evening, subject "People we meet." The lecture is given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gilmour returned on Sunday from a month's visit to Vancouver and other B. C. cities. They report a splendid trip, and good weather most of their stay.

Dr. C. S. Collier went to Macleod on Friday, to meet Mrs. Collier and their daughters, who were returning from Portland, Ore., where they have been visiting for the past two months, arriving here on Sunday.

Rev. J. H. Riddell, D.D., Principal of Alberta College, was in town on Saturday collecting for the building fund of the new Theological college which is now under construction in Strathcona.

The annual Masonic Service in connection with Eureka Lodge No. 10, A. F. & A. M., Lacombe, will be held in St. Andrews Church, on Sunday, June 26, at 7 p.m. Brethren are requested to be at Lodge Rooms, at 6:15 p.m. sharp. Visiting Brethren cordially invited.

Messrs. F. L. Smith and C. R. Denike returned on Friday night after a very strenuous trip to Castor per gas wagon. When a short distance from Gadaby early in the week a boxing on one of the wheels burned out, and the tourists were compelled to spend a night in a nearby implement shed. They say that there are more comfortable sleep producers than spring tooth harrows and gang plows, but are none the worse for their experience.

The Valuable Hen.

The hen is the greatest producer of wealth on the American continent, and yet last year Canada exported only $41,700 worth of eggs, while five years ago, in 1905, $721,000 worth were exported. The decrease is due to the fact that the increase in home consumption exceeded the increase in home production. The consequence is that the price of eggs has gone up very materially. Yet strange to say, there seems to be very few going in for this most profitable branch of mixed farming. In Western Canada it is very seldom that eggs go down to twenty cents a dozen, while sixty cents is quite a common price. At an average price of thirty or thirty-five cents a dozen, there is good money in keeping a stock of hens.

If every farmer in Western Canada would keep enough hens to eat his own wheat and clean up his harvest fields of shelled grain and grasshoppers, he would find his average return per acre very much increased. The outlay is very small when compared with the return.

Denmark, with an area one-fifth of that of Manitoba, with a population of two and a half million people to support, last year exported four million dollars' worth of eggs to Great Britain. There is no good reason why, with the improved methods of packing and transporting, that Canadians should not get a large share of this trade, as well as supply the home trade.

Trying to Save the Province.

Calgary Daily News: The Aliberton and Mr. Tregillus are having the time of their lives saving the province these days.

Mr. Tregillus wants another party added to the bunch already doing business in Alberta. Our esteemed contemporary differs from Mr. Tregillus and says that another party would be one too many.

It is only a short time since the Aliberton and Mr. Tregillus were cheek-by-jowl in the wide open plan of insurrection, but that is all changed and today they are ready to imbue, all on account of the attempt to establish another political party in the province.

Then there was a time when the Aliberton and the gentleman who favors an additional party in the province were united in a strong and vigorous desire that the Hon. Duncan Marshall should step down and out from the administration. That condition has changed and whereas Mr. Tregillus still continues to talk blood and fire against the aggressive minister of agriculture, the Aliberton has pulled in his horns and is not so saucy to the minister as it once was.

Why? Is it not, as The Daily News foretold some months ago, that a haven of rest in the political cyclone cell is being sought by the Aliberton after futile attempt to ribstab Liberalism in Alberta. Mr. Marshall has weathered the storm and the weak and chicken-hearted always worship the strong and look up to the men with a future before them.

Mr. Tregillus expects no favors from Mr. Marshall and continues to look upon that gentleman as possessed of hoofs, horns, and a spiked tail—the same unregenerate Grit as of yore.

Hence the rift in the lute between the builder of political parties in the Middle West and the erstwhile Morning Insurgent. The Daily News would advise a compromise. The indications are that the virtue has gone out of the policy of insurrection that was so ably fomented by Leader Bennett since the meeting of the legislature in February last. The battered ends of the blasted pine of insurrection should be bound together once more and the able leader of the party should endeavor to have the journalistic lion and the agricultural lamb lie down once more together.

It is said that where only a short time ago harmony reigned supreme, there is nothing now but the harsh word and the bitter tone. As the late Gen. Grant once remarked, "Let us have peace!"

Rumor has it that a big change will take place in the management of the affairs of the Hudson's Bay Company. William MacKenzie is spoken of as one of the new directors and also J. P. Morgan.

King George and Politics.

Preconceived notions obtained under different conditions are a poor index of the character and ability that may shine forth under the strain of great responsibilities, and under new conditions. This is true of subject or sovereign.

So little is known, even in England, of the opinions, sentiments, mental and moral traits of King George that every sign or move he makes is eagerly and closely interpreted.

His public utterances have been marked by excellent taste, deep filial sentiment and a sense of great responsibility. His order to limit the period of general mourning and reopen the theatres and amusement places showed breadth of mind, dislike of empty form and a desire to prevent business depression and artificial gloom. His frankness in objecting to the anti-Catholic references in the "declaration" has to make to parliament shows independence and sympathy with the tolerant spirit of the age. Legislation revising the declaration to avoid offence to any of king's loyal subjects has been advocated before, and with prospects of success, but now it is likely to be put through without much opposition.

What of politics? Is King George a Tory, as some radicals fear, and will he stand with the reactionary peers? There is nothing definite before the world whereon to found an answer to this vital question but it must be admitted that the Conservative organs have gained considerable confidence while the Liberal ones seem apprehensive and admit that a truce, with postponement of the whole issue of the lords vs. the commons, will be imposed by the logic of the situation. Still, a truce and delay would not necessarily argue Toryism in the king. It might point to a natural desire to obtain time for a study of the problem and the exerting of personal influence in favor of mutual concessions by the combatants.

The good common sense of the King is the one remaining prop of the monarchical system.

Rainy Creek Items.

Messrs. Frank and Marius Nelson visited with their sister, Mrs. Edw. Forster of Sylvan Lake, last Sunday.

Mr. J. C. Carritt was in Lacombe last Monday and Tuesday.

The Rainy Creek Ladies' Aid held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. E. Stanley, Medicine River, last Wednesday. Mr. Clarence Stauley handled the auto in which the trip was made, and he proves to be a very competent chauffeur.

Mr. Fred Carritt and John Nelson made a trip to the Medicine River Valley on Sunday of last week. Wonder what the attraction was.

Mr. Edw. H. Forster was a Blackfalds visitor last Tuesday.

The Misses Emma Nelson and Mary Carritt visited at the home of Mrs. Edw. H. Forster, of Sylvan Lake, last Monday.

Rainy Creek would like to inform Bentley correspondent, that they too have an eye on the C. N. R. survey party coming west.

Mr. Fred Edwards began breaking for Mr. J. C. Carritt, last Thursday.

Mrs. E. Stanley and son are spending the week with her mother, Mrs. C. W. Ulrich.

Fred Carritt was a Blackfalds visitor last Saturday.

Mr. G. W. M. Thompson and daughter Nellie, who have been the last nine months in Victoria, returned home Friday.

Fred Edwards had the misfortune to lose a valuable horse last week.

Irvine, Alta., experienced the worst fire in its history, when on last Thursday fire threatened to destroy the whole town. The Alberta stable where the fire started was completely gutted. About 41 horses were killed and a ten thousand dollar dwelling house was destroyed. The Alberta hotel was completely gutted on the east end.

Gleichen will soon be in the throes of a municipal election. Now that it has been gazetted a town, the civic elections will be held tomorrow. Dr. Rose, Emil Griesbach and others are candidates for mayoralty.

ALIX

Messrs. W. S. Mooney, A. Belcher, W. J. Lundy, and George Mooney were Alix visitors on Sunday last.

Alix baseball boys and a number of rooters went out to Botha one evening last week and played a game at that place. Our boys trimmed the Dutchmen to the tune of 23 to 2. That was a trifle one-sided, but the "Deltolers" say they will get even at Stettler on the last. "Already yet."

Drs. Hynes of Lacombe, and Graham of Alix, performed a successful operation for appendicitis on Mr. Abe Carroll of Content, on Friday last. He is doing as well as can be expected and in a few weeks will be out again.

Editor Frederic made a trip to Castor on Saturday last.

Miss Morien of this place, is spending a few days at Castor, the guest of Mrs. Theodore Fellows. We regret to learn that Miss Morien has decided to resign as teacher of the Alix school. She is a competent teacher and it will be difficult to fill her place. She has had entirely too many scholars for one teacher, but has never complained.

Quite a number of young people from this place drove down to the Stone school on Thursday evening to a strawberry and cream social. They report an enjoyable evening well understood. The proceeds are to go towards buying an organ for the school.

Sandy Mather had the misfortune to have his dog "Tom" killed at the depot, by being run over with the train. Sandy had just paid the tax too.

Constables Thorne of Lacombe, and Ennor of Stettler, are looking the country over for some horse rustlers, that have been at work in this section. There is a strong suspicion as to who the guilty parties are, but they are pretty smooth. They will play the game a little too long, and finally land in their natural home.

The Banuams, who sold their land and stock last fall, and moved to Missouri, have returned and will make this their home. They say they saw nothing to compare with Alberta.

Messrs. Wallace Jack and Will Guss sold a 4 sec. near Alix to Stewart Crankshaw for $3000. These gentlemen purchased this land less than a year ago for $9 per acre. Word: Buy land near Alix and double your money.

Mr. Chas. Stone is busy every day loading hay and shipping to different parts of the province and B. C. If you want hay any time of the year, write Charlie Stone, Alix.

Mr. Ross is building a fine cottage on the lake front. Capt. Amphet intends building some cottages on his property on the same street. A beautiful location.

A great many telephone poles are being unloaded at this place. The Government are extending the rural line in every direction.

Col. Hogg had a car of exceptionally fine horses unloaded at this place on Saturday. Anyone in need of heavy horses, come and see "The Col."

Cabinet ministers in Canada too much make work horses of themselves, attending to details that should be left to administrative officials or under-secretaries. They should be out among the people more than they are, not looking after party organization, but finding out what the people want and in turn directing the attention of the people to the lines upon which they (the cabinet ministers) believe the national policies should be framed. The contemplated tour of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and some of his ministers through the West next fall is something of the right sort, and if during every parliamentary recess all the ministers would get out among the people and address a series of meetings in different parts of the country the result could not be a wholesome quickening of thought among the people upon the affairs of the nation.

Mr. Sparling of the Merchants Bank, leaves next Wednesday for Portage la Prairie where he will spend two weeks holidays.

He says there is plenty of room up Broadway for the biplane and will make the whole trip just clearing the trolley wires.

Southeastern Europe is flooded, and reports indicate that the death list is between 800 and 1,000. Villages have been wiped out and fertile valleys today are lakes. The property damage exceeds 25,000,000 marks. Austria, the Balkans and Armenia suffer severely. Rains are reported general and the floods continue.

With every despatch the horror of the situation increases. More than 20,000 people are homeless.

What is without a doubt the biggest logging contract yet undertaken in the interior of the province is that just completed by Messrs. Robinson and McKenzie, formerly sawmill operators at Cranbrook and well known as expert lumbermen. The contract calls for the delivery in boom on Shuswap lake of one hundred million feet of logs at the rate of 20,000,000 feet each year for five years, the total value of the output being over $700,000.

Our retiring governor general is making plans for an overland trip to Hudson's Bay and thence by water to Newfoundland. This will afford Earl Grey an opportunity to see the great northern country about which so much is heard and written but so little known.

It will give English public opinion a start to know that our northland is so mild in climate and so easy of access that a governor, general and suite can make the trip without discomfort.

When George Stevenson invented the steam engine, some one asked him what would happen to it if a cow got on the track, and the inventor modestly replied that it would be a bad day for the cow. existence itself.

Saskatoon.—Within less than a month the Grand Trunk Pacific will be putting on a fourteen hour service between this city and Winnipeg. The fact that eight hours' time will be cut off the present service to Winnipeg means a great deal to the people who use the G. T. P. in travelling to Winnipeg. At present there are upwards of 800 men working on the main line between South Saskatoon and Winnipeg. A gang of 200 men are ballasting the line between Kinley and Stony Lake, and beyond that place a second gang is busy, while a third outfit is ballasting out from Winnipeg. The road will be complete within another month's time, and it is safe to say it will be one of the best pieces of railroad in the west.

The consolidation of the Commercial, National and the Continental banks of Chicago, it is announced, has been virtually accomplished. The latest official reports published showed combined deposits of the two banks to be $143,883,319. The capital stock of the new institution will be $20,000,000. G. M. Reynolds, president of the Continental, will dominate the new institution, which will be called the Continental Commercial.

THE LOG OF A MEAT-BOYOOTER
(By Irvin S. Cobb)

MONDAY—Have about decided to cut out meat eating and all expensive food for one week anyhow. Weigh 250 pounds, and one week can't hurt me. Was largely influenced in this course by today's quotations of the provision market. Reads like Tiffany's price list. Used to think Cleopatra was a little thingy, but she was to dissolve in her vinegar. If Cleop were alive today she'd be lucky to afford enough vinegar to dissolve her hair. More'n a million people working overtime to make the world's valuable pearls by machinery. But vinegar costs so much you'd think it would be ashamed to look its mother in the face.

Tuesday—After good fine. Took only one case of water. Saw a very ordinary bird seed. Afterward wiped my mouth on one of those cutiefish bones that they stick between the bars. Seemed to me appropriate than a napkin, in view of the day.

Wednesday—Going along well, but have a strange gnawing sensation in side and appear to be losing flesh. At present, the dog is eating a fair amount of Chick Food, two dog biscuits and a pinch of sachet powder. Appetite being still not entirely satisfied, then ate three goldfish out of the Misses' window and a small amount of powdered cod-liver oil in the fern dish. Looked all through the papers expecting to see notice of the suspension of the Armour Packing Company. Disappointed.

Monday—How much longer can this present condition be held out? Have a feeling that one or the other of us will have to give in eventually. Might even consider a compromise from the other side; but no, not a word. At the Japanese Club, the Japanese are all well. Tried to resist, but will power weak.

Saturday—I weighed 230 pounds less than a week ago, today look at me! Reduced to a mere scenario. Finally decided that since no amount of suffering will move these heartless packers to relent I would be better off dead. Ascended to the top of the Philadelphia Liberty Bell. The bell rang. Went up. After floating about some time finally worked my way down to the bottom of the city. A messenger boy carried me home in his arms. What's the use?

WHEN OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS AT THE DOOR

Some one has said: "Opportunity knocks once at every man's door." It falls only once, and it is continually knocking. In fact, she is a paradoxical knocker. Yes, just that, because she comes only once.

Most of the time they sound like the dashes and dots of success. There is a peculiar thing, too, about Opportunity. She is not a common creature in the world; she never comes without a grievance. But the man or woman with a grievance rarely hears Opportunity. She comes only to the man or woman who has a square deal and there¹²—why, the grievance. People with a grievance always are graduated to that square deal proposition. They have it.

WHEN OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS AT THE DOOR

SOMEONE has said: "Opportunity knocks once at every man's door." What fallacy! Life is continually knocking. In fact, she is a paradoxical "knocker." Yes, just that, because her knocks usually boost.

Most of the time they sound like the jingles and dots of success. There is a knock that says, "You are a winner." She is the most even tempered creature in the world; she never shows any particular bias. But man's manner of opportunity is grievance. Rarely does opportunity will him. But the man or woman with a square deal and there's why, the grievance. Facing such a knock, we are graded on that square deal proposition.

Now, Opportunity is very polite. If she is not called, she will not come to hear her she leaves a card to let you know she was there. And then you say, "I had only known it."

Then that great, know, Hump, look, listen and get over! For the train may be a long one and you may have to wait. But if you do, keep on listening. SHOULD INVESTIGATE HON. W. H. CUSHING.

Some of This Gentleman's Acts
Should Be Looked Into.

Front page articles that have appeared in the Calgary Optimist and the Edmonton Capital relative to the conduct of the former Minister of Public Works exemplify the proverb that "people who live in glass houses should not throw stones." On the floor of the House in the last session Mr. Cushing in biblical language, talked of the eagles gathering about the carcass, having direct reference to the visit of certain government officials to New York when the Waterways Railway bond money was being paid over. Now it is alleged that he received $4,800 from a structural steel firm at Walkerville who had contracts for materials for the parliament buildings. Mr. Cushing says he borrowed the money. The Capital gathers from the public records statements which give the very strong impression that the government was called upon to pay Mr. Cushing $5 per day for the time he was in the east last year attending the convention of the Laymen's Missionary Movement. It looks as though another Royal Commission will be necessary when the Waterways affair is closed up to investigate the administration of the Public Works Department during the regime of the former minister.—Ex.

No Favors.

Premier Sifton told the people of Vermilion not to expect more than any other constituency would get, because their representative happened to be the premier of the province.

That is a position that will receive commendation all over. This business of ministers using the power given them to pull things for their own constituencies, when in all fairness they should go elsewhere, is altogether wrong, and will eventually come back to the erring minister with certain trouble and defeat. There has been too much of that thing in Canadian politics, both federal and provincial, and a public announcement of a departure from such a course is very welcome.—Lethbridge Herald.

Abortion in Horses.

There has been complaint in certain quarters because of abortion in mares. Below is a brief description of the disease, its causes and preventative, as given by Dr. H. G. Reed, Georgetown, Ont.

There Is No Remedy.

It will be observed that Mr. Reed mentions the stallion as the principal agent through which the disease may be spread.

If one mare in a herd has aborted, the owner should then get busy. Isolation and disinfectants are the agents upon which he should rely. Lime for the stable floors and creolin and carbolic acid for disinfecting the mare are recommended.

Certain practices very common throughout the country should be discontinued.

1. Carrying hay behind a mare that has aborted and feeding it to other mares.

2. Throwing bedding from the stall of an aborting mare on a pile to which other mares have access.

3. Permitting mares in foal to remain in the same food lot or pasture with an affected animal.

Dr. H. G. Reed writes:

Cases of contagious abortion in mares (while somewhat rare as compared with the same trouble in cows) are occasionally met with. In both the cow and mare the disease is due to the action of a germ which gains access to the uterus (womb) and sets up a catarrh of that organ which breaks down the adhesion between the walls of the uterus and the foetal membranes and abortion is the result. The germ may get into the uterus through the generative organs, or by means of the general blood circulation after having been swallowed in the food. At one time it was believed that the same germ was responsible for the disease in both cow and mare but recent investigations go to prove that the germs are not identical. Mares have been inoculated with the germ from diseased cows and yet no abortion took place. Abortion in the mare usually occurs from the fourth to the ninth month of pregnancy.

Symptoms.

Often no premonitory symptoms are noticed. The mammary gland is usually enlarged, the lining membrane of the vagina reddened with an offensive discharge from the vulva, which often persists for a considerable time after abortion has occurred. In many cases the labor pains will be very severe and violent, much more so than would likely be the case in a full term delivery.

Treatment.

If the act of abortion has begun no treatment can stop it, consequently we have to turn our attention to preventative measures. The foetus (which is usually born dead) and the after-birth and all discharges from the vagina should be carefully gathered and buried or buried. The surroundings, such as walls, floor and mangers should be thoroughly washed with hot water and then disinfected by the application of a watery solution of bichloride mercury at the strength of 1 to 1,000 or a 2 per cent solution of carbolic acid. The hind quarters and external genitals and around root of tail should be washed daily with either of the above preparations, and also the uterus should be flushed out daily with a lukewarm 1 per cent watery solution of creolin and this should be done till all discharge from the vagina has ceased. The mare should not be bred again until six weeks from her full term date had passed and not then unless all discharge from genitals has ceased. When abortion takes place at pasture, no pregnant mares should be allowed to graze on it for at least three months. The greatest care should be taken by the attendant on a diseased mare to keep some special suit for such work and to remove it and wash his hands before going around healthy mares.

In the case of stallions having served a diseased suspected mare, the penis and sheath should be washed with a half per cent watery solution of creolin and as the stallion is by far the most likely agent to distribute the disease, owner of such horses cannot be too careful in the matter. It is a good and safe practice for all grooms to follow after every service and if it were more generally observed it would tend strongly to limit the ravages not only of abortion, but other genital diseases.

Laurie's Visit to the West.

The Hon. Richard McBride, Premier of British Columbia, has asked Sir Wilfrid Laurier to be his guest while in Victoria, B. C., and Sir Wilfrid has accepted the invitation in the spirit in which it was tendered.

The success that has attended the political efforts of these two leaders is exemplified in the manner in which they defer to the amenities of the political situation and know when and where to eliminate partisan barriers when there is no occasion to maintain them.

Sir Wilfrid reached power by his sunny ways and the Hon. Richard, although on the other side of the fence politically, has been an apt student of the leader that gather personal friends from both sides of the political line.

A better illustration of the manner in which the federal and the provincial premiers have contributed to their large following could not have been given to the people of Canada than that which is now presented in their social amenities. There was a time when it was common for public men to act rigidly even in social intercourse toward those who were of opposite views but those days are past—are dead and buried—and will continue to be so as long as broadminded statesmen like Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Hon. Richard McBride continue to hold leading positions in the party councils of Canada.

It's a great thing to find public men who can rise superior to the pettiness of partisanship and give the country at large the benefit of their broader view of public matters.—News.

C. P. R. HAMPERING C. N. R. BUILDING.

Injunction to Stop Construction of Line to Calgary.

Working upon a legal technicality, the Canadian Pacific Railway company is doing all in its power to hinder the Canadian Northern from getting into Calgary with its branch line and has secured a temporary injunction from Mr. Justice Stuart forcing the C. N. R. to suspend all construction work on the line south of Stettler. The injunction expires on June 24, but it is the intention of the C. P. R. to apply for a permanent injunction which will hold good until the case is settled in court.

The firms under contract with the C. N. R. had over 300 teams and nearly twice as many men at work south of Stettler until the injunction was served, but work is entirely suspended now, and if the C. P. R. is persistent there is little possibility of the road reaching Calgary this year.

Much of the land through which the C. N. R. will have to run south of Stettler is owned or controlled by the C. P. R., and on the grounds that the C. N. R. right-of-way has not yet been approved by the railway commission, according to the requirements of the law, the rival company has obtained an injunction to prevent construction work through its property until the technicalities have been complied with.

The situation is that the C. N. R. has filed the plans of its right-of-way with the railway commissioners, and in order to get the line into Calgary at the earliest possible date, was proceeding with the construction without the plan being approved. This course the C. P. R. is contending, and has secured the injunction to stop the construction through property owned or controlled by it.

The C. P. R. is also putting all the obstacles possible in the way of the C. N. R. securing its right-of-way. The former company refuses to furnish the latter with the names of the persons owning property purchased from the C. P. R. the terms of payment for which extend over very long periods, and consequently the titles for which will remain registered in the name of the C. P. R. until the final payments are made.

The C. P. R. is also putting up a strenuous opposition to the C. N. R. securing a right-of-way through irrigated land sold to individual property owners, but over which the railway company has a certain amount of control through its irrigation leases.

The Small Ranchers' Opportunity.

In these days when the big ranches in the south are being thrown open for settlement, large numbers of highly bred calves find their way to the abattoirs that would be a valuable acquisition to the small rancher or farmer further north or in the foothills, who wishes to improve his herd.

These animals sold last year for less than half of what they would be worth to the man who wants to grow beef cattle.

All over the mixed farming districts one sees herds of scrub cows and heifers running at large headed by a scrubby bull. These are the ones that should go to slaughter and their places be filled with better stock which can now be secured at reasonable prices.

Such an opportunity will probably never again present itself, and it should be taken advantage of while it lasts by those who wish to grow beef cattle.

Information as to where such stock is to be sold off this year can be obtained from the principal cattle buyers and from the Department of Agriculture at Edmonton.

The Way Cleared For Connaught.

Ottawa, June 15.—The announcement that Premier Asquith has introduced a bill in the British House of Commons, providing that in the event of the death of King George, Queen Mary would become regent during the minority of the Duke of Cornwall, is taken here as definite confirmation of the report that the Duke of Connaught will succeed Earl Grey as Governor-General of Canada.

This was one of the difficulties in the way of the appointment of the Duke of Connaught, it being feared that there would be opposition to the proposal to have a woman as regent, as in the event of the death of the King, when an adult male member of the royal family would be available in the person of the Duke of Connaught.

However, it is apparent that the desire of King Edward that his brother should come to Canada will be allowed to outweigh all other considerations and by the naming of Queen Mary as regent the way is being made clear for the carrying out of the royal wish.

According to the bulletin issued by the census department, the area of wheat in Canada this year is 9,285,000 acres, or an increase of a million and a half acres over last year.

If your mower isn't a Frost & Wood, very likely you have to back it up several feet and get a "flying start" before the knives will cut. That is because it is made on the External Gear principle.

Now, with the Frost & Wood No. 8 Mower the knives commence cutting the instant the horses begin to move. That is because the No. 8 is designed on the Internal Gear principle.

The mother, tired, with aching head, from sweeping floors and baking bread, called to her daughter: "Susan, dear, I wish you'd help a little here."
